Relevant Quote Dept.

"Residence life is the opiate of the asses!" - Shameless Hegel
"I announce that I am hereby not running for Senate. If elected I have no intention of ever going there and rather than waste my time with it, I would like to start creating alternatives to such bureaucratic authoritarian bullshit." - Juan Garcia Oliver (Anarchist Minister of Justice during Spanish Civil War and assassin of 256 of the ruling class by his own hand.)
"You can't beat Fort Camp meat!" - Paul Barnett
"There is not avant-garde. There are only people who are a little late" - Edgar Varese

FLAMING FAGGOTS FLOCK TO FORT

On hearing the latest Hosing rule that men cannot talk to women through their wide-open (5" crack) windows after visiting hours, the F.F.A. (Flaming Faggots Association) has issued a bulletin to its members as follows:

Dear fellows,

Another crop is getting ripe for harvest. The boys in Fort Camp have a wonderful arrangement. They can go to one another's rooms at any time of day or night. They can even shut and lock the door. Think of the possibilities. Think of the relationships you can develop with all those sex-starved men. But be careful not to appear during the regular visiting hours, as you might find some girls in the rooms! Have no fear however, 'cause the Hosing Authority is on our side.

Love,
Engelbert McTwitt

LEGENDARY FIGURE SEEN OUTSIDE GIRL'S DORMS AT 1:00 A.M.!!!!!!!!!!!!

Fort Camp resident Hugh J. E. Rection was seen standing on the sidewalk attempting to guide his massive organ through a first floor window on one of the girls' dorms recently. This infamous depucelator was foiled in his attempt however by the small (5" crack) opening of the window. The precious virgins of Fort Camp are obviously safe from fear of impregnation by this and other legendary Fort Camp figures. Even those who are nobly endowed cannot accomplish any seductive feats through the open windows of any of the women's dorms. A spokesman for the girls commented late last night in a special Fort Camp news interview, "Our women are impregnable, fear not, they shall stay pure."

Culshur Dept.

If you want to get out of Fort Camp to expand your mind sometime this week (and rumour has it that there's several people wandering around here that have never been out of Fort Camp), a couple of suggestions:

First, the Younger Vancouver Sculptors' exhibition in the Fine Arts Gallery located in the basement of the North wing of the library. (Where's the North wing? Where's the library??) Admission is free and there's a couple of exhibits you can play with (if you're inclined to do that sort of thing.

Also, at the Oakridge Auditorium (somewhere around 41st Avenue and Cambie Street, the Vancouver Police Force has a display with neat films about drug addiction, demonstrations of all the neat and cute tricks their police dogs (grrrrr!) can do, plus much more including a do-it-yourself fingerprint demonstration. (But don't drop any of the messed-up prints on the floor, or you never know what they'll do with them...)

More Relevant Quotes:

"Sweet Bananas!" - Arnold (morelman) Saba

"What exciting things happened today? Did Fort Camp slide into the sea?" - James Conchie, Ubysssey reporter

"The freedom of the Press from the point of view of national interest is an illusion." - Adam de Hegedus

Great Modern Myth Dept.

"Because we are committed to the full development of the individual, and we believe that each student will be able to find his or her own particular way to fulfillment - we have no rules and regulations, but rather wish to see life in residence based on principles and standards. It is our hope that the standards established in these residences will long after help and guide young men and women."

- from the U.B.C. Resident Student Assn. Handbook

More of the Same...

"Students should be advised that the custom of incense burning is not permitted in residence. Incense burning has, in the past, been used as a cover for drugs, and therefore, creates unnecessary suspicion. It is also a great fire hazard. Because of the danger of fire created by this practice, students burning incense in residence will be asked to leave.

While candles also may seem harmless, damage has been done by them in the past and dangerous circumstances have arisen. Their use is, therefore, not permitted in residence."

- from The Book

Oh Yeah?

When you think about it, the rule about no incense is really pretty fair. Fort Camp is quite a firetrap. However, it seems that the rule-makers are forgetting a few more "fire hazards".

What about all those cigarettes, cigars, and pipes that are being lit in our hallowed halls every minute of every day? Doesn't that constitute a hazard? (Not to mention all those matches!)

And what about the electric fixtures like lights and plugs? Maybe we should do away with them also....you never know when one of them will malfunction or overheat. In fact, the only solution for this last problem is to do away with electricity altogether and re-arrange the university timetable so that students in residences can attend classes at night and study in the daytime when it's bright and sunny....

Another Quote by de Hegedus for your Intellectual Mastication:

"The best way to deprive people of knowledge is not to make knowledge forbidden or difficult of access, but to make it ridiculous, to attack its prestige, to harness the bitterness of the masses against it."

The Editor Finally Speaks:

Undoubtedly some of you are reasonably perturbed that this issue hasn't offered any news. (If you want some, here's a sample. There was another dance held here since the first one (Wow); Jill Cameron came down (??) to speak to us a while ago, giving us about five hours of what's on her mind (double wow); there were a couple of Men's and Women's Council meetings at which most of what was planned has already happened; there were a couple of hockey games (Would you believe there are sports around here? We have trouble thinking so, cause nobody every gives us any sports information), plus the usual horror shows and other idiocies)

Again we must make a plea for any help or information you want to have published. We prefer stuff which tells about coming events rather than those things that've already happened, since as the paper comes out once a month, news tends to become pretty stale.

(One add. news item: Anyone interest in the Starve-for Biafra deal see Paul Barnett or Gordon Schnepf in Hut 5. I already got shit for letting this news slip into the Ubysey, so I better not say any more. - Quagliu)

That's all for now. The next issue, if we're still running, will be a BIGGIE next month telling about how great Fort Camp really is.

Love and kisses to all....
